I've searched for similar posts on this site and none seem to apply to my problem. A: It looks like you have more than one device connected. You can not configure one parallel port per port adapter. I would try to remove the device or try a different one. No need to remove anything. Just set the port you want to use in the properties of the Port95NT.exe and run the program again. If it works, then you'll see a new icon in the system tray. If you've been following the crypto space for the past 12 months, you've probably heard of the term "decentralized finance." In recent times, it's been on the rise, with a number of projects aiming to take the industry in a different direction. For example, decentralized financial networks (DeFi) are projects that provide financial services (notably payment processing) in a way that is not controlled by any central authorities or institutions. Due to this, many projects that have emerged in the last few years have shown themselves to be more secure and provide a more flexible and user-friendly platform. In this article, we'll look at three of these projects that you may have heard of. Lending Club
